

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
July 21, 2016

July 24, last day for online registration at International Conference on Jewish Genealogy

If you haven't already registered online for the 36th International Association of Jewish Genealogical Societies International Conference on Jewish Genealogy, you better hurry! Monday, July 24 is the final day on which you can register online. The conference, which is expected to gather upwards of 1,000 family historians from around the world, will be held at the Sheraton Hotel in downtown Seattle from August 7 to 12.

After July 24, registration is still available at the hotel, but the cost will increase from $345 to $370 for full registrations. (There is no price increase for single-day registration.)

Although the registration period for meals has closed, there are still some slots available for computer workshops. Detailed information and the complete conference schedule is at www.iajgs2016.org.

The Seattle conference will feature hundreds of presentations, panels, and computer labs offered by the world's leading genealogical experts. Highlights include a Jewish film festival curated by leading Jewish film scholar and teacher of cinema Eric Goldman, the opening night keynote address by Dr. Devin Naar, chair of the University of Washington Sephardic Studies Program, and the banquet address by Legal Genealogist Judy Russell, a Certified Genealogist and Certified Genealogical Lecturer.

In addition, as at previous conferences, key lectures and presentations will be made available through LIVE!, a real-time video streaming service during the conference and available on-demand after the conference for 90 days. .

For more information, contact the conference co-chairs Janette Silverman, Phyllis Grossman, and Chuck Weinstein through the conference website www.iajgs2016.org.
